

A complex black and white maze with a green starting dot at the top left and a red ending dot at the bottom right. A blue line traces a path through the maze, starting from the green dot and ending at the red dot. The path is a single continuous line that winds through the maze's corridors, avoiding the walls. The maze is composed of many interconnected paths and dead ends, creating a challenging navigation task. The blue line starts at the top left, moves right, then down, then right again, and continues to wind through the maze, eventually reaching the red dot at the bottom right.